Forest fire -
Ignited by dead wood
And an alive gulmohar

A lonely bat - Throws echoes,
To make sense of this world.

Breakfast on a table top leaf -
Two ants
Take a break from monarchy

City moon - a redundant night lamp

News that never made it - Incessant rain
Douses gulmohar flame

Night walk -
my shadow swings
from one lamp post to another

Radio tweety -
My ears tell me,
There's a new bird on air.

Late breakfast - bread, butter
and traffic jam.

The game -
Rain sneaks up
And catches people with closed umbrellas freedom - as the bird flies

a lonely feather breaks away and falls to the ground

Kolkata - carry it home in an earthen pot at the cost of your heart

Sun rises in the west
And in some downtrodden country Sets.
